

ROME SCHOLARSHIP IN ARCHITECTURE 2022–3

THE ROME SCHOLARSHIP IN ARCHITECTURE (recently known as the Scholars' Prize in Architecture) is awarded to a recently qualified architect (post Part II) who has shown exceptional promise in their student work or their early professional career, or both.

The successful candidate will spend three months at the BSR undertaking their own, self-directed programme of research. This research — related to the city of Rome or, if appropriate, elsewhere in Italy — may take the form of an architectural project, a theoretical study or an historical investigation, or indeed a combination of all three.

The successful candidate will have exceptional access to the extensive collections of the BSR Library and Archive. They will also form part of the community of artists and scholars resident at the BSR, and be able to benefit from, and contribute to, the intellectual and social exchange that has always been such an important aspect of the life of the BSR.

'I have no doubt that the [residency] was of fundamental importance to my future practice. The experience changed how I think about my own work and helped define the questions I wanted to pursue in the future.'

Morgan Gostwyck-Lewis
Scholars' Prize in Architecture Winner, 2016–17

The Scholarship offers:

- a grant of £700 per month
- board and accommodation in a study-bedroom
- duration: 3 months (January–March 2023).

Applicants must be:

of British or Commonwealth nationality, or have been working professionally or studying at postgraduate level for at least the last three years in the UK or Commonwealth (i.e. since June 2019).

Closing date for applications: Friday 29 July 2022

'The opportunity to live in Rome over the three month residency has helped me better understand the link between public space and public infrastructure which will most definitely support projects undertaken in South Africa where I work in complex informal environments where there is a critical need for both positive public place and infrastructural services.'

Amy Thompson
Scholars' Prize in Architecture Winner, 2021–2

THE ROME SCHOLARSHIP IN ARCHITECTURE has been made possible by donations from a number of former BSR award-holders and current committee members, who will be actively involved in the shortlisting. Final selection at interview will be by members of the new Faculty of Architecture of the BSR (<https://bsr.ac.uk/about-us-governance/>).

Selection criteria

In making an appointment to an award the Faculty of Architecture will assess all applications using the following set of criteria:

1. the quality of the applicant's creative output;
2. the extent to which the applicant's proposal reflects the purpose of the award;
3. the viability of the proposal as a project to be carried out with support from the BSR.

In addition to these three basic selection criteria, the selectors for the Rome Scholarship in Architecture will take into consideration: (i) the presentation of a creative, intellectually coherent and focused project; (ii) the candidate's demonstration that the project has the potential to develop the given field; and (iii) the potential of the prize to impact on the applicant's professional, creative and intellectual development. The selectors will attempt to ensure that the needs and interests of the successful applicant are compatible with the facilities available at the BSR and the interests of its community. Credit will be given to those who are no longer in full- or part-time education at the time of application. Candidates will be expected to have some knowledge of Italian or be willing to learn. Those who acknowledge the importance of communicating with Italians will derive the most benefit from being at the BSR.

The selection panel's decisions are final. Feedback cannot be given on unsuccessful applications.

General conditions

Successful applicants must:

- live at the BSR throughout the period of the award
- be prepared to learn some Italian before going to Rome
